¹ On January 15, 2019, the defendant admitted criminal responsibility by entering a no contest plea to a felony violation of Penal Code § 32, being an accessory to a felony, to wit, burglary. This result is now counted and weighed as a draw.

² A mistrial was declared on January 24, 2019 after the jury announced it would be unable to reach a unanimous verdict. After the mistrial was declared, the jury foreman informed the trial court that the jury was split 11 for guilty to 1. The case was then set for a retrial. On June 10, 2019, the defendant entered a guilty plea to the same felony charge on the morning that jury selection was to begin for the retrial. Accordingly, this result is now counted and weighed as a win.

³ This defendant was charged going into trial with felony arson of property and felony vandalism of property valued at greater than $400. The jury acquitted the defendant of the two felonies, but instead found her guilty of the lesser crime of misdemeanor unlawful setting of a fire. While a conviction, this trial is nevertheless counted and weighed as a loss.

⁵ Two verdicts were returned by the jury – one was guilty of hit-and-run driving, and the other was not guilty of reckless driving. Accordingly, this outcome is counted and weighed as a draw.

⁸ The July jury could not come to a verdict on the second felony count. The DA has decided to retry that felony count before a new jury. The next trial date is February 10, 2020.

⁹ Despite facing a serious long-term jury trial backlog, the Ten Mile branch of the Mendocino County Superior Court nevertheless failed to summon enough individuals for jury duty to allow the jury selection process to be completed and the trial to begin. Starting with only 29 potential jurors, when there were only 11 possible jurors left and the defense refused to stipulate to a jury of less than 12, the court declared a mistrial. This being the defendant's first trial of three is now rescheduled for December 10, 2019.
